

Stages of Provisional Admission

For Applicants from the British Secondary School System and International Baccalaureate (IB) System

Provisional admission represents a conditional acceptance that depends on the predicted, non-final grades acquired by students applying to Qatar University. Typically applicable to graduates of international high schools following the English curriculum, this type of admission is offered due to the final, official results of such curriculum being released after the announcement of admission decisions. In order for the provisional admission to become final, students must achieve actual grades that are equal to or higher than their predicted grades and submit the official documents confirming this.
